

Drinking water preparedness

A collaboration between the University of Southeast-Norway, Inland Norway
University of Applied Sciences, Horten municipality and Scandinavian Water Technology AS.

3 day course.

Total cost is 12 900 NOK/person, includes everything besides hotel.

The price includes:

- Lunch, dinner, snacks, coffe, thé and mineral water every day of the courses duration
- Course compendia- distributed to all participants first day
- Guided tour on Karljohansvern and visite on the KNM Narvik, an Oslo-class frigate of the Royal Norwegian Navy
- Inspection at one of Horten municipalitys drinking water basin
- Certificate of participation

Registrate through the administration of the course:

E-post: post@beredskapskurs.com

Tel: +47 984 15 020

In the course you learn:

Whats the characteristics of a crises, what is preparedness og crises management, and some historical aspects of this.

Preparedness circle, prevention and risk reducing measures, training and awareness, how to prepare for a crisis.

Introduction of risk and vounlerability analysis, risk matrix and the municipal risk situation.

Preparedness planning, dimentioning for equipment, planning and organizing crisis management.

How to use a watetank for transporting water, mobile unit for water treatment, vacuum toilet and shower systems and mobile unit for pasteurizing black water.

The lectures are given by:

- Jarle Løwe Sørensen- associated professor in preparedness and crises management.
- Eric Carlström, professor in health and crisis management
- Glenn-Egil Torgersen, professor of pedagogy and phsycology
- Bjørn T. Bakken, associated professor
- Geir Kjellsen, municipal manager technical department Horten municipality
- Georg Finsrud, CTO in Scanwater,
- Øivind Hegg, retired major from the Norwegian defense.